The Emerald Coast (grindstone mountains in gallurese) is a gallurese coast section in the North West of Sardinia. The expression known in the 60s originally indicated the only section from Arzachena coast in the Olbia-Tempio province. It is interesting because of the project whose homonym is "Emerald Coast consortium". This touristic region is included in the Arzachena communal territory. It extends on a coast section for about 20 km. The coast is distinguished by the presence of various inlets and small beaches.
